

Would you find it useful to have a survey you could distribute to students to learn about their experiences during COVID-19?

What topics would be most important to include in the survey?

Are there other topics not listed above that you think would be important to include in the survey?

- Additional responsibilities? This might be captured in the other categories, but I was thinking about something for students to easily explain their work or child care/sibling responsibilities to help us come up with a plan that better supports kids who are working or caring for/home schooling younger siblings.
- Areas that they may want enrichment activities if they are working from home. This is a perfect opportunity to allow for some freedom in their learning.
- community impacts/responses...what is happening within students and teachers' community?
- Not at this time.
- digital divide - lack of internet connectivity
- no
- Trauma Informed Practices in General
- No I think that pretty well covered it.
- gathering student ideas for how best schools can meet their needs with remote learning
- We are also using possip.
